New Look Same Great Service

Aligning the Past with the Future

Many don't realize that your Woodstock Telephone Company stands among the most technologically-savvy telecommunications companies in America, with fiber to the home for nearly every customer. Our potential connectivity—our data/information throughput—is enormous!

Building on our strong tradition of high-tech service, we are moving forward. To reflect our expanded range of service, we needed a new look and feel as well as a new name: Woodstock Communications. While our old I.D. has served us well for so many years, our evolved brand symbolizes our commitment to serving your changing needs in the near and distant future.

More and more, people are turning to their communications companies for on-demand content and programming and Woodstock is on the forefront of this trend. We are dedicated to offering affordable service along with the modernized features. Our team is committed to giving that extra touch of service that larger companies cannot.

The linked O's in our new wordmark represent those goals. First and foremost, they demonstrate connectivity—not only the connections our services provide, but also the connection we feel to our customers, our employees and the communities we serve. The O's are technical and modern, yet friendly and familiar, which are all of the things we pride ourselves on as a company. The coloration of the wordmark contains blue and green tones, representing the natural environment of the agrarian region we serve.

We have exciting developments on the horizon for you. New technologies will allow us to bring service to many more in our region, including under-served areas starved for connectivity. We look forward to sharing those advancements in the months and year to come.

Starting in March, this will be our new look. Welcome to your new, old friend! Welcome to Woodstock Communications!

Short Tutorial - How To Perform A Search On Twitter

Your Twitter timeline is great for helping you stay updated, entertained, and connected. But did you know you can also search the entire Twittersverse for information? Here's how it works:

1. Locate the search box at the top of your Twitter home page or app.
2. Type in your search term and enter.
3. The results will reflect everything on Twitter, including tweets and users.
4. In the full version, narrow the results by choosing from the selections in the left-hand column. If you're using the app, view these selections by tapping the "refine results" icon at the top of your screen.
5. As an alternative search method, click or tap a hashtag within a tweet to find all tweets with the same hashtag.

With 300,000 new tweets posted each minute, it's likely you'll find what you're looking for!
